

Amber Paden earned her Master's degree in applied behavior analysis from St. Cloud State University in 2010. She completed her practicum experience at the University of Nebraska Medical Center's Munroe-Meyer Institute (MMI) in the Early Intervention Clinic. She is currently working as a clinical case manager in the Early Intervention Clinic at MMI as well as conducting research. She has published in various journals including the Journal of Applied Behavior Analysis and The Analysis of Verbal Behavior. In addition, she has served as a guest reviewer for the Journal of Applied Behavior Analysis since 2010. Amber previously served on the executive board for the Heartland Association for Behavior Analysis for 6 years as Vice President and President, and continues to be an active member of the organization. She has been providing supervision to undergraduate and graduate students during internship and practicum experiences, as well as Registered Behavior Technicians and Board Certified Assistant Behavior Analysts since 2010.